Bulk Water Exports to be Discussed at Continental Integration Talks

The leaked document of a prominent Washington-based think tank obtained by the Council of Canadians reveals that government officials and business leaders from Canada, Mexico and the United States are scheduled to discuss bulk water exports in a closed-door meeting at the end of the month as part of a larger discussion on North American integration. Titled the "North American Future 2025 Project," the initiative being led by the U.S.-based Center for Strategic and International Studies, the Conference Board of Canada and the Mexican Centro de Investigación y Docencia Económicas calls for a series of "closed-door meetings" on North American integration dealing with a number of highly contentious issues including bulk water exports, a joint security perimeter and a continental resource pact. According to the document, a roundtable on the "Future of the North American Environment," is planned for this Friday April 27 in Calgary, and will discuss "water consumption, water transfers and artificial diversions of bulk water" with the aim of achieving "joint optimum utilization of the available water."

Bike Dump Needs Donations of Frames and Parts

Seen any bikes while cruising the city dumpsters lately? Have some languishing in your basement or in your garage? Let's get them back where they should be.... On the streets! The Bike Dump is looking for donations of bike parts to continue providing bicycle transportation to folks in the Central Winnipeg community and beyond on a sliding scale. Write us at bikepunks@bike-dump.ca if you can help out. We also can always use more volunteers to help keep the space in working order and to help others with their repair projects. If you're interested, stop by on a Wednesday evening volunteer night.
